

Practical 2: Semantic HTML5 Pages with Accessibility-Ready Structure

Problem Definition: Develop static HTML5 skeletons for at least 10 StudentHub pages such as Home, About, Register, Login, Dashboard, Events, Profile, Contact, Admin, FAQ, and Feedback. Use semantic tags and accessibility-friendly structure.

Key Questions:

1. Are semantic tags such as header, nav, main, section, article, aside, and footer used properly?

Answer:

Semantic HTML5 tags are used properly to organize the web page into meaningful sections, improving readability, accessibility, and SEO.

- `<header>` – Contains the website title, logo, and header content.
- `<nav>` – Contains navigation links to different HTML pages.
- `<main>` – Holds the main content of the page.
- `<section>` – Groups related content into sections.
- `<article>` – Represents independent content such as a blog post or announcement (used where applicable).
- `<aside>` – Contains additional information such as notices or quick links (used where needed).
- `<footer>` – Contains copyright information and footer details.

Using these semantic tags makes the HTML structure clear, easier to maintain, and helps browsers and search engines better understand the content.

2. Are form labels, headings, image alt text, and navigation links accessible?

Answer:

The webpage follows basic accessibility practices.

- Form labels are provided for all input fields to identify their purpose.
- Headings (`<h1>`, `<h2>`, etc.) are used in a logical order to organize content.
- Image alt text is added using the alt attribute to describe images for screen readers.
- Navigation links are clear, descriptive, and easy to access using the navigation menu.

These practices improve usability, accessibility, and make the website easier to use for all users, including those using assistive technologies.

3. Is the page structure consistent across all pages?

Answer:

Yes. The page structure is consistent across all HTML pages.

- The same header is used on every page.
- A common navigation menu allows easy movement between pages.
- The main content is placed in the center with a similar layout.
- The same footer is included on all pages.
- Consistent fonts, colors, and spacing provide a uniform user experience.

This consistency makes the website easier to navigate, maintain, and use.
